

It might be a juvenile bunch from the Harlem Darktown Follies singing the Lenox Avenue Blues, but it isn't—just a row of mischievous pupils in the Guanchapali Mission School in Panama as they lined up for the camera of an Interchurch investigator.

Kadel & Herbert

Master Leonard Moorhead Thomas, the handsome little son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, both socially prominent in New York and Philadelphia, who were divorced in Paris several months ago. The news of their separation, which came out only the other day, created considerable surprise in fashionable circles.

Underwood

"Wynken, Blynken and Nod"—a beautiful bit of sculpture typifying that famous child poem of Eugene Field's, by two Chicago sculptors, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Torrey. It is to be placed in Washington Park, Denver, Col.

Keystone View

JUST KIDS

A quartet of society youngsters and their speedy auto coasters snapped recently in the city's favorite playground, Central Park. Master Charles Tiffany Richardson Jr., with his brother William E. and his sister Anne S., and Master Albert F. Gallatin Jr.

International

Right—Where the expression "love, honor and oh, baby," probably originated. The marriage ceremony of a three-year-old bride and a seven-year-old bridegroom, low caste children of Baroda, India, is interrupted while the photographer snaps this interesting picture. The bride, pensively sucking her finger, apparently doesn't just savvy what the preacherman has been saying.

Kadel & Herbert

Right—A new fad for English children—ballooning on auto scooters. The youngsters fasten large vari-colored toy balloons to the handles of their auto coasters and are a picturesque sight indeed as they go skimming about the asphalt streets of London's suburbs.

Underwood

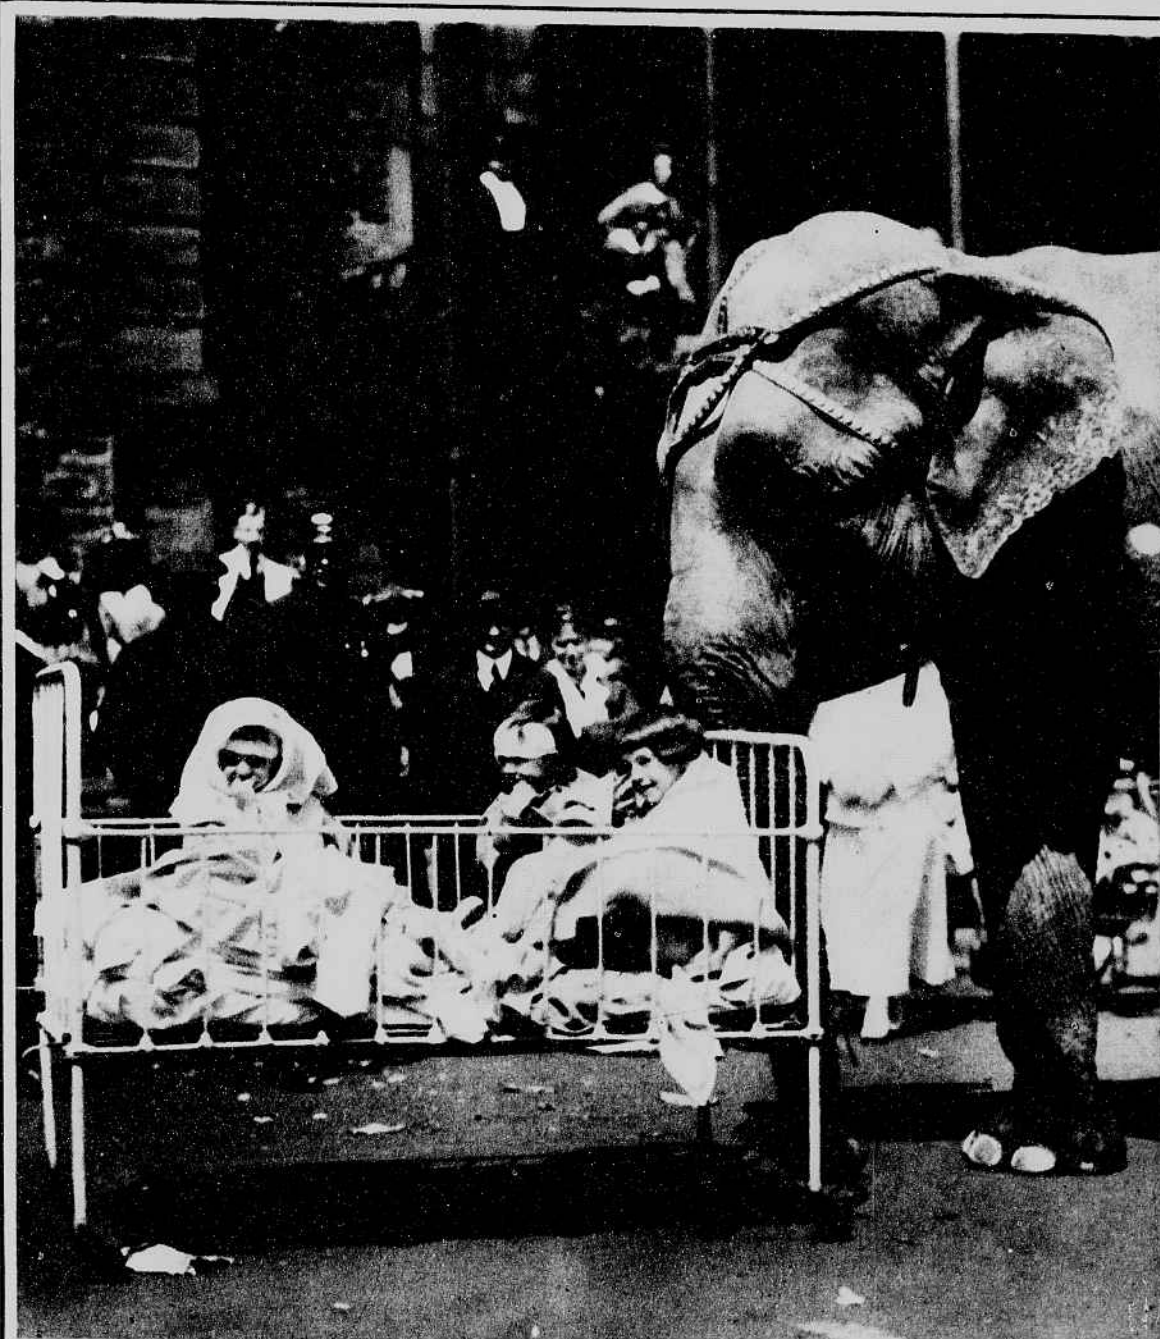

Left—Mrs. Lloyd George, wife of Britain's Premier, enjoying an afternoon walk with her two grandchildren, Valerie and Margaret, at Cricieth, Carnarvon, Wales, where she is taking a well earned rest from her many political and social activities.

Underwood

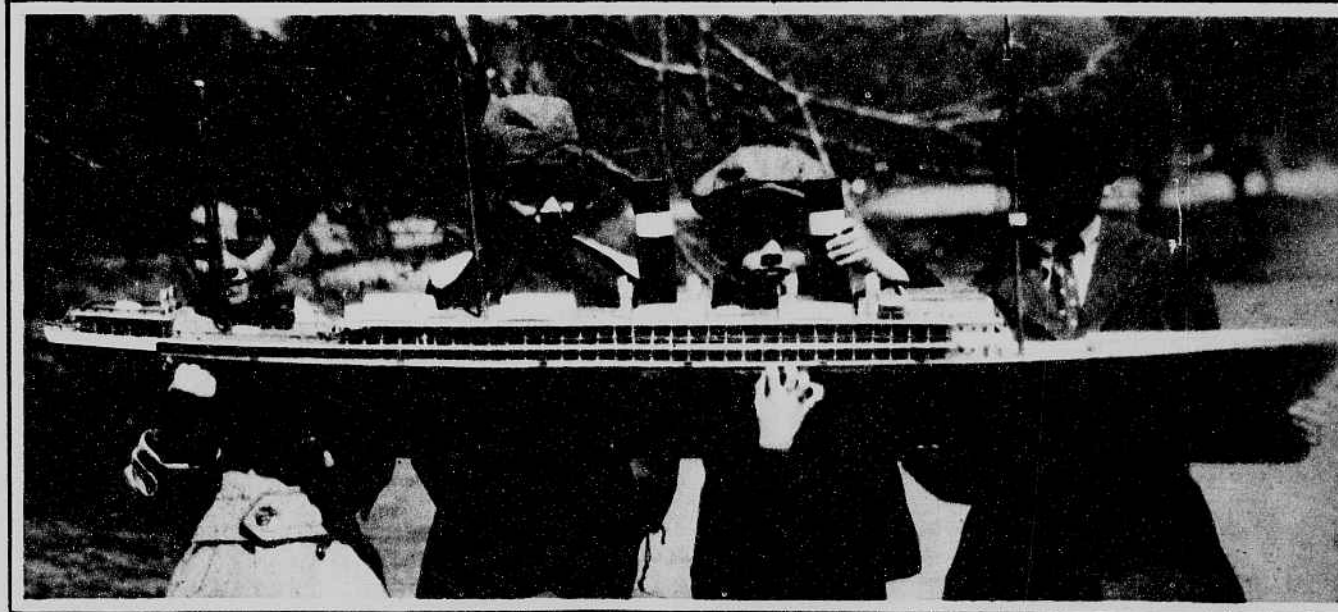

As the little invalids of Bellevue couldn't get over to the Garden to see the circus the circus just had to go to them. Here is one of the big show's biggest elephants considerably pushing a crib full of convalescent youngsters.

Keystone View

Uncle Sam never had control of this railroad. A miniature locomotive with a Cincinnati sidewalk right of way. Constructed from the parts of auto coasters, furnace pipe and bits of junk—has a real whistle and electric headlight. Driven by a four-foot power engine. What youngster wouldn't "strike" for a similar outfit?

Keystone View

No launching of a big liner was ever attended with more genuine interest and excitement than prevailed among the children in Prospect Park the other day when George Ruger, of Brooklyn, launched his miniature S. S. New York. The model, perfect in detail, is 6 ft. 6 in. long, and according to its builder is of 150 "mouse" power.

International